

New Flagship Sponsor

Neurotech Network would like to welcome the Alfred Mann Foundation for Scientific Research to our family of Flagship Sponsors. Only with the support and generosity of our sponsors, may we continue our work to increase awareness, education and advocacy for neurotechnology devices, treatments and therapies.

Thank you for your support!

Outreach Activities brings New Resources

It has been a busy spring for Neurotech Network outreach activities. We conducted six educational presentations across the country directed to the disability and medical professional communities. As a result of some of these sessions, we have posted the handouts as an additional resource to our network. Below are the topics and links to them

- Using Technology to Advance Outcomes for Persons with Brain Injuries at Contemporary Forums, Brain Injuries
 - Neurotechnology Overview by Jennifer French, MBA
 - Clinical Cases of Upper Extremity Rehabilitation with FES and Clinical Evidence of External FES for Drop Foot Stimulation by Suzanne L. Tinsley, PhD, PT
 - Robotic Rehabilitation Using Visual Feedback Manipulation to Optimize Performance by Bambi Brewer, PhD
- American Occupational Therapy Association Annual Conference session titled "Using Technology to Advance Outcomes for the Neuromuscular Patient Population" contributors include:
 - Melissa Suddeth, OT, MBA, Spartanburg Regional Medical Ctr
 - T. Ann McElroy, PT, Restorative Therapies
 - Jody Feld, DPT, MPT, NCS, Bioness

- Anne Bryden, OTR/L, Cleveland FES Center
- Jennifer French, Neurotech Network
- User Demonstrations by Doug and Melissa
- Advances in Neurotechnology for Persons with Spinal Cord Injury at Contemporary Forums, Spinal Cord Injury
 - Neurotechnology Overview, Jennifer French, MBA
